

World's Most PREMATURE Baby TURNED ONE

He was given a zero percent chance of survival.

Richard Scott William Hutchinson arrived 131 days before his expected due date and weighed just 11.9 ounces. He was so small his parents could hold him in the palm of their hand. During prenatal counseling on what to expect for a baby born so early, his parents were given a 0% chance of survival by the neonatology team.

But little Richard now holds the Guinness World Record for the world's most premature baby, 21 weeks 2 days gestation.

On June 19th, 2021 Richard turned one. His first birthday coincided with the first national celebration of "Juneteenth," the date which, in 1865, marked the formal and final end to the American institution of slavery. An evil practice which could not have existed but for the belief that some are born less than human.

Richard's parents hope his against-the-odds entrance into the world will bring awareness about premature births. We hope Richard's miraculous life will move others (especially those who support abortion on demand) one step closer to realizing every human life (no matter how small) is precious and worthy of honor and protection.

WHAT SURPRISING THING DO THESE COUNTRIES...

Australia	Germany	Ireland	Philippines	Slovenia	Turkey
Bahrain	Greece	Italy	Poland	Trinidad &	United
Belgium	Hungary	Morocco	Portugal	Tobago	Kingdom
Canada	India	Netherlands	Singapore

... HAVE IN COMMON?

According to our digital publisher, people in all of these countries have downloaded, This Is Your Brain On Porn by Karen Kropf! This little ebook offers practical steps and behavioral changes to those struggling with pornography. That it has international appeal comes as something of a shock, to be honest, but it is really an honor to help anyone anywhere who has fallen into the porn pit.

COACH'S CORNER

Courageous parents all over the country are confronting their school boards about Critical Race Theory, gender-confusion propaganda and the sexualization of children as young as kindergarten. In spite of being dismissed, called racist/sexist/homophobic/transphobic/etc., added to lists for targeted harassment, and in some cases, arrested — these parents are reminding school boards, teachers unions, administrators and politicians the ultimate responsibility for children does not rest with the state. It is reserved for parents.

Moms and Dads know they are accountable (potentially financially, but certainly morally) for how well their children turn out. The fact that public school students are submersed in ideology, language and imagery that has the potential to negatively shape their self-image, their values, their character and their productivity, has become cause for alarm for many parents.

It seems evident that many families are considering educational options other than state-run institutions. The latest data shows public schools lost over 1 million students during the pandemic — some to private schools with in-person teaching, some to homeschooling and learning pods, but others because they lacked an adult presence in the home to enforce visual learning or they had techno-challenges that could not be overcome.

Coaches, Positively Waiting is with you! We have always embraced the position that parents should be the First Best Source for information about sex, love and relationships. Now more than ever, we are committed to supporting your ability to make that a reality in your family. Please do not hesitate to contact us for resources or referrals.

Babysitting Like A Boss: Gave my nephews $5 each and told them to hold it against the wall with their nose. The first one to drop it would lose, and the winner would get both bills.

Kept them busy for 3 hours.
