

WHAT Could Possibly Go WRONG?

A very attractive 3rd year college student lamented that GenZ hooks up, but doesn't date. The options are hooking up for casual sex, or nothing.

How did we create a culture which has no interest in developing transparent and lifelong relationships? A few generations ago, Together Forever was the norm, not the aberration.

We've seen it disappear in one generation, in FIVE EASY STEPS.

WARNING: The following addresses sexual behavior, and includes some NOT-FOR-CHILDREN language. Reader discretion is advised.

STEP ONE: Early exposure to porn. By age 8, the research shows most males have been exposed to some form of pornography. Masturbation is common, even normalized and encouraged at a fairly young age. This means boys come to associate climactic pleasure with the sensation of their hand – a very different sensation from vaginal intercourse.

STEP TWO: “Comprehensive Sex Education.” K-12 students are taught that they can (and should) explore the pleasurable aspects of sexual behavior without guilt and but with protection. The goal is, “Have orgasm, avoid babies.” Curricula emphasize oral sex, mutual masturbation and anal sex as alternatives students may engage in as soon as they are “ready.” Whatever that means.

If children follow this instruction, they will experience multiple forms of sexual activity during adolescence. The neural connections they construct in the course of their formative years will condition their brains and bodies to associate sexual fulfillment with acts other than vaginal intercourse. For this reason many religiously-trained young people will do everything BUT vaginal sex to maintain the illusion they are abstinent-until-marriage. But often report feeling guilty and disappointed when the one act they “saved” for marriage doesn't feel quite like what they've come to associate with sexual fulfillment.

STEP THREE: Convince teen girls to engage in anal sex. In the old days, girls were pressured to give oral sex with the argument, “if you can't get pregnant, it's not real sex!” And driven by a fear of being rejected, or losing her boyfriend, or to gain popularity, or because “everyone else does it,” etc. girls provided this service as requested. But now anal sex has become the new oral sex. Social messages implying females who permit anal sex are “prized” culturally abound. Just one of many examples: In The Kingsman Secret Service, Princess Tilde (Hanna Alström) offers Eggsy (Taron Egerton) anal sex if he saves the world." Lacking a convincing rebuttal to “you can't get pregnant!” while in pursuit of the Sex Ed Goal (Have orgasm, avoid babies), girls are reluctantly persuaded to provide this new sexual service.

STEP FOUR: Make realistic porn ubiquitous. Unlimited amounts of porn instantly accessible through any electronic device (PC, phone, gaming console, etc). Virtual reality was invented to meet the demand for more realistic porn.

The ever-presence of porn has generated “hikikomori,” a Japanese term meaning “the withdrawn.” These are typically males between 15 and 30, who never leave their bedroom in their parents’ home. About 30% of Japanese males are hikikomori, and similar percentages are reported in other countries.

It makes sense, if you think about it. Why bother to engage socially with Real People who can be demanding and/or confusing when its possible to experience a virtual world where all partners do whatever you want, whenever you want?

STEP FIVE: The advent of the “New” Feminist. She is an angry, demanding victim of toxic masculinity. She proclaims her superiority and her victimization simultaneously. She utterly rejects traditional definitions of beauty or gracious behavior, and in fact, insists males ought to accept whatever standard SHE chooses.

The New Feminist also insists straight males ought to date transwomen (bio-males who identify as female) to “combat hate,” and those who won’t are “bigots.”

This may sound like exaggeration, but consider Megan Rapinoe, Victoria Secrets newest ambassador. This transgender lesbian (a bio-woman who identifies as male and is attracted to females) is certain whatever s/he finds “sexy” about a woman will automatically appeal to hetero-males. A predictable result of claiming there ARE NO DIFFERENCES in male-female sexual response systems.

Where does all this lead? Inevitably to GenZ males deciding anything beyond hooking up is simply not worth the effort. Seriously, if vaginal intercourse is nothing like the sensation provided by masturbation or anal sex, and could produce an unintended pregnancy, why would they?

On top of that, if the critical, demanding, person-with-the-vagina is likely to be awarded all his wealth, property, children and status should a legalized union fail -- well, only a fool would fall for that trap. They’ve been taught children don’t really need a mom and a dad anyway—oblivious to the mountains of evidence proving that fatherlessness is the root cause of crime, violence, gangs, teenage pregnancy, academic failure, incarceration, bullying, substance abuse, poverty and emotional maladies.

So GenZ doesn’t date. No dating. No commitments. No kids. What could possibly go wrong?

COACH'S CORNER

Children who fear getting into trouble develop a wealth and variety of deceptive behaviors.

This month’s TIP: Be quick to confess your own errors and forgive theirs!

My husband started rating our teenagers' moods like hurricanes.

"We're at a Category 5 in the kitchen this morning. Here's some bottled water and I suggest you ride this storm out in the bedroom by sheltering in place."

Having a teenager is like having a cat that only comes out to eat and hisses if you try to pet it.
